

Ken-Ton Big Picture TGIF

One student at a time.

The students continue to make lasting impressions at their internships on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Gabriella Cavalleri has been interning at Ken-Ton Animal Clinic this school year. She has been working in a number of different capacities with the doctors, including some surgical procedures as pictured here.

Our students truly get real-world learning through the Big Picture Program.

The Halls are Alive!

The students of Big Picture have many talents. We celebrate each individual student for what they bring to the program. Some students are gifted writers, some are great with hands-on work and other are very artistic. Last school year, a student put together a collage of photos that was made into a 4'x8' print on aluminum. The collage was recently installed permanently in the Main Hall of Big Picture for all to enjoy thanks to "Mayor" Mike Kollmar.

Some current students have been inspired to pursue their passion for photography and have started to share their collections with the program by displaying their photographs in the hall. This has led to creating a student gallery that will be available to all students to display their art in the halls. This gallery is still in development but will be up and ready for use before too long.

Big Picture keep evolving and improving thanks to the great minds that come here to learn everyday. The students make this their school through the sharing of their talents and working together to create the right environment for all.
